DIXON CHURCHES TO KEEP MOTHERS DAY

NEARLY EVERY CHURCH IN THE CITY PLANS TO HONOR THE MOTHER.

TOMORROW IS MOTHERS' DAY

Day Has Been Set Aside by Proclamation of the Governor and Will Be Observed All Over the Union.

Mother's Day will be observed in practically every church in the city tomorrow. This new, nationally observed day was originated in 1908 by Miss Anna Jarvis of Philadelphia. Gov. Dunne has issued a proclamation recommending that May 11th be the day for the mothers throughout Illinois. Every state in the Union is also keeping the same day.

At the Methodist church the pastor, Rev. F. D. Stone, will preach a sermon at the morning service appropriate to the day.

The subject for the morning sermon by Rev. E. O. Bradshaw at the Baptist church will be "Mothers' Day Observance."

Mother's Day will be the theme of the morning service at the Lutheran church, of which Dr. F. D. Altman is pastor.

The evening service at the Presbyterian church will be in honor of the mothers. The members of the M. W. A. and R. N. A. will attend in a body. A special program has been prepared.

The day will be observed by an appropriate sermon at Congregational church by its pastor, Rev. C. E. Stebbins.

Responding to the request of the Illinois Commission on Marriage and Divorce, Rev. S. E. Fisher of the Christian church will speak on Mothers' day on "The Divorce Evil."

At the Church of the Brethren, a Mothers' Day rally will be held.

For the Mother living, a bright flower is to be worn; for the Mother gone, a white flower.

MOTHER.

Mother mine, Oh, Mother mine,
List while I whisper low,
This word of vital truth to you,
Mother mine, Oh, Mother mine.

The years have passed and gone away,

Since I was at your knee,
But dear, those lessons taught by you
Are with me night and day.

Methinks sometimes I was quite bad,

When childish play was high,
And yet as I think back to those good days
I see you always cheery and so glad.

The lessons learned at Public School

Are always helpful, too,
But when harassed by fiercest strife,

Your lessons are the best of fuel.

I think of those delightful days

When sitting by your side
You told me of the Saviour's love,
And why the Christ-life pays.

I can't forget that face so dear,

That face that's ever near,
All through this journey here below
It cheers and makes a smile appear.

My Master calls me to this field,

And takes me from your care;
But, Mother dear, remember, please,
Your prayers will be my shield.

Mother mine, Oh, Mother mine,

I thank you for your life,
And all your words of cheer and love,
Mother mine, Oh, Mother mine.

The above tribute to "Mother" was written by a prominent Dixon man and sent to his mother on his birthday anniversary.

LAY CORNER STONE OF HASKELL MEMORIAL

EXERCISES AT LEE CENTER ON NEXT TUESDAY WILL BE INTERESTING.

BUILDING GREAT CREDIT TO TOWN

The Odd Fellows of Lee Center and Vicinity Deserve Credit for Their Enterprise.

The corner stone of the Haskell Memorial hall, which the Odd Fellows are building at Lee Center, will be laid on next Tuesday, May 13, at 1 p. m., and the day will be a memorable one for the members of Haskell Lodge No. 1004, I. O. O. F.

The hall, which will be a very beautiful two story building, will be a monument for whom it is named, George E. Haskell, and to the enterprise and energy of the Lee Center lodge, which has a large membership considering the size of the town in which it is located. The name was suggested by Rev. Dr. Kempster and S. A. Sandberg and was accepted by the Grand Master as a most appropriate one, on account of the close connection and deep interest that Mr. and Mrs. Haskell and other members of the family have always had in the lodge. Mrs. Haskell donated the site for the hall and gave other assistance that made possible the building of the memorial. Rev. Kempster of Lee Center has been an untiring worker in the cause and deserves great praise for his share of the work, as do many others who have given their all.

Good transportation facilities have been provided for those who wish to attend and the ladies of Lee Center are noted for their dinners, suppers, etc., and visitors will be treated to samples of these.

The Haskell family still retain their interest in Oddfellowship and many of the family are directly connected with the former lodge. We have in the person of Mrs. Abigail L. Haskell one of the oldest Rebekahs in the world, at the age of 92; then Everett Haskell Welch of Pomona, Cal., is a Past Grand and token of his high esteem for the order and the place of his childhood he has consented to open the Haskell Memorial I. O. O. F. upon its completion and dedication in July, 1913; besides this he has donated the principal corner stone, while Hon. Eugene W. Welch of Galesburg and his son Frank will assist in the ceremonies by laying the corner stone on behalf of the lodge. Eugene Welch was prosecuting attorney for several years in Knox county and will give an address at the ceremony on May 13. Mrs. A. L. Haskell will lay the principal Center stone and will be ably supported by D. Grand Master, Warren Darnell, McLean, Eugene Welch, Galesburg, Bro. John J. Brown, P. Grand Master, Vandalla, Bro. Jas. Ewing, Davis P. Grand Master, Chicago, Bro. Claude E. Sayre, D. D., Freeport; Bro. Fred. Kempster, D. D., P. G., Lee Center; Bro. Rev. A. Simister, Ashton; besides the members of Haskell Lodge No. 1104, Green River Lodge, Amboy No. 999; Pawpaw No. 510; Dixon Lodge No. 39; Ashton No. 997; Polo No. 197; Sterling No. 174; Rochelle No. 293; Earlville No. 294; DeKalb No. 155; Malta No. 606; LaSalle No. 101; Freeport No. 30; Freeport No. 239.

Many Eyes Defects

Are congenital—that is, the person was born with them.

There is often a flattening of the eyeball, or a shortening which renders seeing difficult.

The muscles of accommodation automatically strive to overcome these defects, which strain the eyes and cause all sorts of bodily discomforts. There is a simple, pleasant cure for all these troubles—the wearing of glasses.

We are able to determine what lenses each case needs—able to do it with scientific accuracy. If interested, call.

OPERA HOUSE.

The public stamp of approval has characterized Miss Hilda Orth, the headliner at the opera house tonight and Sunday evening. The pleasing little lady has youth and beauty to add to her vocal charms. Her turn is entirely too brief to suit the patrons of the theatre.

The balance of the bill is also a delightful entertainment. Crystal Bell is especially interesting in her monologue singing and buck and waltz dances.

There reels of photo play consisting of comedy and drama will complete the show. Don't fail to see it.

BURNED AND ITCHED BADLY

Burn Was Sore and Ulcerated. All Red and Inflamed. Suffered Terribly. Could Not Sleep for Two Weeks. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Arm Healed Nicely.

539 Lincoln Park Blvd., Chicago, Ill.—

"A year ago I received a very severe burn on my left arm. I caught cold in it and it was all sore and ulcerated. The sore was as large as a silver dollar. It was all red and inflamed and had pus running out of it. I suffered terribly from burning pain; could not sleep for two weeks it burned and itched so badly. I applied Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I got relief from the first and my arm healed nicely. I was soon able to be at work again. Had I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment at first I would have avoided lots of suffering." (Signed) Harry Junke, Mar. 9, 1912.

If you wish a skin clear of pimples, blackheads and other annoying eruptions, hands soft and white, hair lustrous and glossy, and scalp free from dandruff and itching, begin to-day the regular use of Cuticura Soap for the toilet, bath and shampoo, assisted by an occasional light application of Cuticura Ointment. A Poem for Tomorrow.

If I were hanged on the highest hill,
I know whose love would reach me still,

If I were drowned in the deepest sea,
I know whose tears would come down to me,
Mother o' mine.
If I were damned in body and soul,
I know whose prayers would make me whole,

This col. has seen lots of stunts that it thought were zero in sport, but the sight of a strong healthy young man pushing a motorcycle up and down the street in an effort to get the pesky thing to start is our idea of nothing to get enthused about.

On the Job.

When charged with being drunk and disorderly and asked what he had to say for himself, the prisoner gazed pensively at Magistrate Kent, smoothed down a few stray locks of gray hair and said:

"Your honor, man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn. I'm not as debased as Swift, as profligate as Byron, as dissipated as Poe, as immoral as Rousseau, as debauched as—"

"Never mind! That will do!" thundered the judge. "Ten days! And, officer, take a list of those names and run 'em in. They're as bad a lot as he is!"

KILLS EVERY CARTARRH GERM

BALSAMIC AIR: NATURE'S OWN
REMEDY THAT IS GUARANTEED TO END CATARRH.

If you, Mr. Catarrh Victim, could only take one good luck into your nose and throat and see the filth and the raw sore spots that are caused by germs of Catarrh you would secure a HYOMEI outfit this very day and start at once to destroy the cause of nose and throat illness.

Booth's HYOMEI is a germ killing air which when breathed through a small inhaler or in vapor form begins at once to drive out all mucus and bring the membrane back to a normal, clean, healthy condition. Complete outfit includes inhaler, $1.00. Extra bottles is later needed, 50 cents, and money back from Rowland Bros. If dissatisfied, Just breathe it—no stomach dosing.

HOW TO PREVENT BREEDING

If you have a stable do not allow manure to accumulate. The manure should be removed twice a day to a closed pit and should be removed from this twice a week. Do not tolerate manure piles.

Green vitriol, one pound in a gallon of water, applied once a day will kill the maggots in the manure from a one horse stable.

If the old fashioned dug outhouse is used it should be thoroughly treated at frequent intervals with chloride of lime.

Garbage cans should be closely covered, or, better, should have a fly trap attached to the cover in such a way that all flies upward from the garbage will be sure to enter the trap.

A STRANGE TALE OF THE "MAL OJO"

SCHOOL FRIEND WRITES DIXON
GIRL OF HER EXPERIENCE WITH THE "EVIL EYE"

The Mexicans, especially the more ignorant classes are an extremely superstitious class of people, and they have many uncanny customs, as are manifested among the southern darkies, and they are greatly impressed by many strange and weird beliefs, in which they have implicit faith.

An interesting example of one of these is told in a very readable letter received the other day by a Dixon young lady from a girl friend who is school teacher in the town of Randado, Texas, near the Mexican border. All of her pupils are Mexicans and in fact she is the only American in the town.

A Case of "Mal Ojo"

Randado, Texas

My dear Compadre:—

I've got the strangest tale to relate that ever you heard a Dutchman or a Jew spin, and altho you don't have to believe it, every word is true. My eyes are not only green, but possessed of the devil, for last Friday I gave the "mal ojo" to a little Indian boy in Randado. In case you are not familiar with that mysterious malady, for it is not described in any medical book, I'll tell you about it.

The Mexicans have a superstition that if anyone admires or loves a person or thing, having a desire to touch that person or thing and does not gratify that desire, said person or thing becomes possessed of the "mal ojo," or evil eye, and they will die of it unless the one who inflicted it on them comes and touches them, thereby breaking the magic charm. Last Friday, a little half-breed Mexican came to my school, who had inherited from his American father a pair of beautiful blue eyes. Any kind of blue eyes would have been pretty to me after my long exile among brown-eyed Mexicans, so I admired them very much, but I did not touch the child. You can very readily understand that, knowing as you do how filthy and garlic-perfumed these little greasers can get. It was by not touching him that I played the devil, however.

Saturday after dinner imagine my surprise when a Mexican galloped up and dashing into the ranch house said for me to come quickly that I had given the "mal ojo" to a little Mexican, Juan Ramirez and that he was dying. I begged George to come with me and believe me made those old cow ponies eat up the fifteen miles between the ranch and Randado. I petted the child and loved him and kissed him and whether it was the fresh air (or my wonderful touch) he quit complaining of his sore eyes and his fever began to leave him. Pretty soon he sat up and asked for some nails to play with. Sunday they took him back to Laredo and they said he was perfectly all right again but I was surely scared, for George had deserted me and I was all alone in that roomful of praying, mumbling old fool women. If anything should have happened to that child, they would have torn me to pieces, for you know how narrow and unreasonable they are.

You needn't think I am proud of my "devil eyes," however, for now I am afraid to look at anyone for fear I shall give them the "mal ojo."

I was inclined to think mine was an unique experience, but Uncle Ralph says he has known of several cases where the Mexicans thought they were possessed of the evil eye, and when all medical aid had failed to do them any good they were cured when the one who had given them the evil eye merely touched them, and their faith in both cause and cure is implicit. Since my own experience I have asked many people about the "mal ojo," and like Uncle Ralph they have testified to its prevalence among the Mexicans.

DISCOVERS PICTURE OF OWANICO, THE INDIAN.

Chicago, Apr. 30, 1913
 Editor Evening Telegraph:—
 I got 'im! Miss McIlvann had him here in the library of the Society and didn't know it. When I told her that I wanted a picture of Owanico, she smiled wanly, but ordered a big stack of books for me to con.

Owanico was an Indian who was good without being dead. He was one of Father Dixon's best friends. Once upon a time in the troublous days of Dixon while Father Dixon was absent in Prophetstown on war business, some tramps in the shape of rascally Sacs and Foxes on mischief bent, entered the Dixon cabin. Mrs. Dixon was alone with the children. Then things happened just right, like they do in stories. Owanico came in. He looked fierce. He pointed towards the door, stamping his foot upon the floor and those bronze-colored tramps skidded.

Entered then a spirit of kindness not shown in brown stone fronts today. Mrs. Dixon prepared a bountiful meal and Owanico was sent out to invite the intruders back that they might sit at a table and eat just like white folks.

John Dixon and Owanico were great friends and that is why I searched for Owanico. His was the last picture in the last book. When in triumph I showed the Indian to the librarian, the wan smile turned into a winning one while she said: "I did not think your Indian was big enough to be in the Lewis Portfolio. I am so glad you found him."

That is where Dixon scores on Indians as she does on many things. Everybody turn in and help with that history. Then it will be some book.

KANSAS WOMAN WHO SUFFERED

Lawrence, Kans.—"A year ago I was suffering from a number of ailments. I always had pain and was irregular. During the delay I suffered a great deal with headache, backache, dizziness, feverish spells, nervousness and bloating. I had been married nearly three years. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now I feel better than I have for years. I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all who suffer as I did."—Mrs. M. ZEUNER, 1045 New Jersey Street, Lawrence, Kansas.

Montana Woman's Case.

Burns, Mont.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me of awful backache which I had suffered with for months. I was so weak I could hardly do my work and my head and eyes ached all the time. Your Compound helped me in many ways and is a great strengthener. I always recommend it to my friends and tell them what a grand medicine it is for women. You may use my name for the good of others."—Mrs. JOHN FRANCIS, Burns, Montana.

The makers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound have thousands of such letters as those above—they tell the truth, else they could not have been obtained for love or money. This medicine is no stranger—it has stood the test for years.

'ARSON SQUAD' ACTIVE

Women Burn Large Mansion in Lancashire England.

Asquith and Churchill Leave London for Cruise, Strongly Protected Against Suffragists.

London, May 10.—The duke of Marlborough received an anonymous letter warning him of intended damage to Blenheim Castle by the suffragettes. The militants are framing a plot to destroy a number of valuable pictures in the Blenheim gallery, according to the letter writer, who is a supporter of the suffrage movement, but not a sympathizer with the violent campaign of the militants.

A militant suffragette "arson squad" succeeded in destroying by fire a large untenanted mansion near Barrow-in-Furness, Lancashire. A quantity of literature was scattered on the lawns surrounding the house.

Apprehension of the authorities over the threats of militant suffragettes to eclipse their destructive acts of the last week was manifested in the precautions taken when Premier Asquith and Winston Spencer Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, accompanied by their wives, left Waterloo station on the Southwestern railway for the coast to join the admiralty yacht Enchantress, on which they are to make a long cruise in the Mediterranean.

A large number of naval aids, government departmental secretaries and railway officials surrounded the party formed by the cabinet ministers and those who had come to bid them goodbye. Beyond these there was an outer circle of detectives to protect the ministers from any undue attention by militant suffragettes or their male supporters. So great was the protecting force in the railway station that a demonstration by the suffragettes would have been impossible.

"Gen." Mrs. Drummond, militant leader who collapsed twice in the Bow street police court Thursday during the proceedings against the principal officers of the Women's Social and Political union for conspiracy, is ill from the effect of her privations during the "hunger strike," while under remand. Her physician has advised her to undergo an operation.

The Express asserts that among documents the police seized in the suffragette raids was a bundle of love letters. The letters were addressed by a Socialist member of parliament to a prominent militant.

GLOVER IN AN APOLOGY

Outsider Arraigned in House for Contempt Is Reprimanded.

Washington, May 10.—Charles C. Glover, the Washington banker who recently attacked Representative Sims of Tennessee on account of a speech delivered in the house, was brought before the bar of the house and reprimanded by Speaker Clark for violating the privilege of the house. A resolution authorizing the banker's arrest had been adopted a few minutes before with only four dissenting votes. When brought in by the sergeant-at-arms, Glover read an apology, saying that his act was committed under great stress of feeling and that he did not know he was affronting the house.

This was the first time in nearly 40 years that an outsider had been arraigned before the house for contempt. Speaker Clark delivered the reprimand solemnly and deliberately.

"The freedom of speech and immunity from question on words spoken in the senate and the house," he said, "lie at the root of our institutions. Assaulting a member of congress for words spoken in debate might compel a good man, who does not want to kill anybody, to perform that very act."

MRS. THAW TO GO ON STAGE

Signs Contract to Tour Music Halls and Vaudeville Theaters.

Plymouth, May 10.—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw has abandoned, temporarily, at least, her ambition to become a sculptress and will return to the stage. She has signed a contract with the Marinelli Agency to tour music halls and vaudeville theaters of England and America. Her salary is given at $5,000 a week. She will make her first appearance within a few weeks at a London music hall.

When seen aboard the Olympie, Mrs. Thaw said that she was going direct to Paris to continue her study of sculpture for a short time and will then go to London, where she will make her debut. With Mrs. Thaw was her two-year-old son, Russell, whom she affectionately calls "Pom Pom."

Many prominent persons were present and took part in the ceremonies. Joseph H. Choate presided and spoke, and speeches were made by Borough President McAneny, Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, and Congressman Richard Bartholdt. Among some of the veterans who fought with Schurz and who were present at the dedication today were Gen. P. J. Osterhaus, Gen. Horace Porter, Maj. Gen. Grenville M. Dodge, Gen. Adelbert Ames, Gen. DR. E. O. GABLE, Neuropathic Specialist.

There are hundreds of people who are suffering with either acute or chronic rheumatism in some form, neuralgia, sick headache, uric acid troubles. There are hundreds of people suffering with weakness or disease of the heart. Ninety per cent of these people have no organic disease but just a functional trouble, yet if it is let alone it will produce organic disease and early death. Palpitation, shortness of breath, irritated heart action, intermittent pulse, dizzy spells, pain around the heart, fainting spells, bad circulation, cold hands and feet—all these symptoms indicate a weak heart and weak circulation through it. There are thousands of people suffering with weakness or disease of the kidneys. They go on, allowing it to grow worse, allowing the kidneys to be clogged up, allowing them to become congested and inflamed and finally the little tubules are destroyed completely, producing Bright's disease and death, because the poisons and the waste matter that should be thrown off of the system through the kidneys is absorbed back into the blood, producing a slow form of poison that destroys nerves, muscles and vitality. In the early stages of kidney troubles it may only show by an irritated bladder, burning, or back ache, or simply weakness. But whenever this organ is not acting normally, you should have it treated immediately because it is sure death if you do not stop it. The kidney is the sewer of the body and must be kept open.

I call especial attention to these diseases for the reason that my Neuropathic system of treatment has a quicker effect on such diseases as these than other treatments. It acts directly on the nervous system, circulation of blood, kidneys, bowels, liver and skin. I can give almost immediate relief to almost every case of this kind and give a complete, positive cure, if the patient will follow my advice and my treatment a reasonable time. My Neuropathic system cleanses and purifies the blood.

It relieves the weakness and congestion about the heart, removes the pressure in the small capillary blood vessels so that the blood, when it leaves the heart, can go out naturally into the muscles, nerves and extremities; and when that commences, in every case the disease deposit rapidly absorbs and disappears. I want every one suffering with these diseases to call on me this trip. I will make a complete examination and tell you exactly the condition you are in, and if the disease has not gone too far, I will give you almost immediate relief and a complete cure. To prove this, I will give my services free to every person that calls on me this trip. I want to give you no excuse to go ahead and suffer with these diseases. There is no reason why you should suffer day in and day out with every change of the weather with rheumatism. It can be cured completely. There is no excuse for you to sit quietly down and allow your weakness and disease of the heart and the kidneys to gradually grow worse and become an organic disease, when you know it is going to kill you. When you know if you wait too long until the internal tissues of this organ is destroyed, then nothing can be done. My Neuropathic system of treatment has the most immediate effect on these cases. I want to prove it to you. All I ask of you is to come and see me. You cannot refuse this offer. You owe it to yourself and family and to this new scientific treatment to call on me and let me examine and explain all these things. Remember, I treat all chronic weakness and disease, no matter of what organ. My Neuropathic system of treatment has given relief in thousands of cases when all others failed. I use no strong poisonous medicines. This is a combination of treatment, both internal and local. You have never used anything like it. I want to explain this to every man, woman or child suffering with any chronic disease, weakness, on this trip. Remember, I accept no case by mail. I must make a complete examination of the case first. I do this for you free of charge on this trip. I will be at the Nachusa House for one day from 10 a. m. until 8 p. m. Tuesday, May 13, returning every two weeks.

CHAPTER X.

A Difference of Opinion.

At an early hour the next morning, Sweetwater stood before the coroner's desk, urging a plea he feared to hear refused. He wished to be present at the interview soon to be held with Mr. Brotherson, and he had no good reason to advance why such a privilege should be allotted him.

The coroner, who had had some little experience with this man, surveyed him with a smile less forbidding than the poor fellow expected. "You seem to lay great store by it," said he; "if you want to sort those papers over there, you may."

"Thank you. I don't understand the job, but I promise you not to increase the confusion. If I do, if I rattle the leaves too loudly, if I mean, 'Press him further on this exact point,' but I doubt if I rattle them, sir. No such luck."

The last three words were uttered sotto voce, but the coroner heard him, and followed his ungainly figure with a glance of some curiosity, as he settled himself at the desk on the other side of the room.

"Is the man—" he began, but at this moment the man entered, and Dr. Heath forgot the young detective, in his interest in the new arrival.

"Mr. Brotherson, I believe," said he, as he motioned his visitor to sit.

"That is my name, sir."

"Orlando Brotherson?"

"The same, sir."

"I'm glad we have made no mistake," smiled the doctor. "Mr. Brotherson, I have sent for you under the supposition that you were a friend of the unhappy lady lately dead at the Hotel Clermont."

"Miss Challoner?"

"Certainly; Miss Challoner."

"I knew the lady. But—here the speaker's eye took on a look as questioning as that of his interlocutor—"but in a way so devoid of all publicity that I cannot but feel surprised that the fact should be known."

At this, the listening Sweetwater hoped that Dr. Heath would ignore the suggestion thus conveyed and decline the explanation it apparently demanded. But the impression made by the gentleman's good looks had been too strong for this coroner's proverbial caution, and, handing over the slip of a note which had been found among Miss Challoner's effects by her father, he quietly asked:

"Do you recognize the signature?"

"Yes, it is mine."

"Do you remember the words of this note, Mr. Brotherson?"

"Hardly. I recollect its tenor, but not the exact words."

"Read them."

"Excuse me, I had rather not. I am aware that they were bitter and should be the cause of great regret. I was angry when I wrote them."

"That is evident. But the cause of your anger is not so clear, Mr. Brotherson. Miss Challoner was a woman of lofty character, or such was the universal opinion of her friends. What could she have done to a gentleman like yourself to draw forth such a tirade?"

"You ask that?"

"I am obliged to. There is mystery surrounding her death—the kind of mystery which demands perfect frankness on the part of all who were near her on that evening, or whose relations to her were in any way peculiar. You acknowledge that your friendship was of such a guarded nature that it surprised you greatly to hear it recognized. Yet you could write her a letter of this nature. Why?"

"Because—" the word came glibly; but the next one was long in following. "Because," he repeated, letting the fire of some strong feeling disturb for a moment his dignified reserve, "I offered myself to Miss Challoner, and she dismissed me with great disdain."

"Ah! and so you thought a threat was due her?"

"A threat?"

"These words contain a threat, do they not?"

"They may. I was hardly master of myself at the time. I may have expressed myself in an unfortunate manner."

"Read the words, Mr. Brotherson. I really must insist that you do so."

There was no hesitancy now. Rising, he leaned over the table and read the few words the other had spread out for his perusal. Then he slowly rose to his full height, as he answered, with some slight display of compunction:

"I remember it perfectly now. It is not a letter to be proud of. I hope—"

"Pray finish, Mr. Brotherson."

"That you are not seeking to establish a connection between this letter and her violent death?"

"Letters of this sort are often very mischievous, Mr. Brotherson. The harshness with which this is written might easily arouse emotions of a most unhappy nature in the breast of a woman as sensitive as Miss Challoner."

"Pardon me, Dr. Heath; I cannot flatter myself so far. You overrate my influence with the lady you name."

"You believe, then, that she was sincere in her rejection of your addresses?"

"I have never allowed myself to think otherwise. I have seen no reason why I should. The suggestion you would convey by such a question is hardly welcome, now. I pray you to be careful in your judgment of such a woman's impulses. They often spring from sources not to be sounded even by her dearest friends."

Meantime, the coroner had collected his thoughts. With an apology for the extremely personal nature of his inquiry, he asked Mr. Brotherson if he would object to giving him some further details of his acquaintance with Miss Challoner; where he first met her and under what circumstances their friendship had developed.

"Not at all," was the ready reply. "I have nothing to conceal in the matter. I only wish that my father were present that he might listen to the recital of my acquaintance with his daughter. He might possibly understand her better and regard with more leniency the presumption into which I was led by my ignorance of the pride inherent in great families."

"Your wish can very easily be gratified," returned the official, pressing an electric button on his desk; "Mr. Challoner is in the adjoining room."

Then, as the door communicating with the room he had mentioned swung ajar and stood so, Dr. Heath added, without apparent consciousness of the dramatic character of this episode, "You will not need to raise your voice beyond its natural pitch. He can hear perfectly from where he sits."

"I first met Miss Challoner in the Berkshires," he began, after a moment of quiet listening for any possible sound from the other room. "I had been on the tramp, and had stopped at one of the great hotels for a seven days' rest. The panorama of beauty spread out before me on every side was sufficient in itself for my enjoyment, and might have continued so to the end if my attention had not been very forcibly drawn on one memorable morning to a young lady—Miss Challoner—by the very earnest look she gave me as I was crossing the office from one veranda to another. It was an overwhelming blush which could not have sprung from any slight embarrassment, and, though I hate the pretensions of those egotists who see in a woman's smile more than it by right conveys, I could not help being moved by this display of feeling in one so gifted with every grace and attribute of the perfect woman. With less caution than I usually display, I approached the desk where she had been standing and, meeting the eyes of the clerk, asked the young lady's name. He gave it, and waited for me to express the surprise he expected it to evoke. But I felt none and showed none. Other feelings had seized me. I had heard of this gracious woman from many sources, in my life among the suffering masses of New York, and now that I had seen her and found her to be not only my ideal of personal loveliness but seemingly approachable and uninterested in myself, I allowed my fancy to soar and my heart to be come touched. A fact which the clerk now confided to me naturally deepened the impression. Miss Challoner had seen my name in the guest-book and asked to have me pointed out to her. Perhaps she had heard my name spoken in the same quarter where I had heard hers. We have never exchanged confidences on the subject, and I cannot say. I can only give you my reason for the interest I felt in Miss Challoner and why I forgot, in the glamour of this episode, the aims and purposes of a not unambitious life and the distance which the world and the so-called aristocratic class put between a woman of her wealth and standing and a simple worker like myself.

"What Are You Doing?"

"I must be pardoned. She had smiled upon me once, and she smiled again. Days before we were formally presented, I caught her softened look turned my way, as we passed each other in hall or corridor. We were friends, or so it appeared to me, before ever a word passed between us, and when fortune favored us and we were duly introduced, our minds met in a strange sympathy which made this one interview a memorable one to me. Unhappily, as I then considered it, this was my last day at the hotel, and our conversation, interrupted frequently by passing acquaintances, was never resumed. I exchanged a few words with her by way of goodbye but nothing more. I came to New York, and she remained in Lenox. A month after and she too came to New York."

"This goodbye—do you remember it? The exact language, I mean?"

"I do; it made a great impression on me. 'I shall hope for our further acquaintance,' she said. 'We have one very strong interest in common. And if ever a human face spoke eloquently, it was hers at that moment. I thought it sprang from personal interest, and it gave me courage to pursue the intention which had taken the place of every other feeling and ambition by which I had hitherto been moved. If she could ignore the social gulf between us, I felt free to take the leap. Cowardice had never been a fault of mine. I realized that I must first let her see the manner of man I was and what life meant to me and must mean to her if the union I contemplated should become an actual fact. I wrote letters to her, but I did not give her my address or even request a reply. I was not ready for any word from her. I am not like other men and I could wait. And I did, for weeks, then suddenly appeared at her hotel."

"This was when?" put in Dr. Heath, anxious to bridge the pause which must have been very painful to the listening father.

"The week after Thanksgiving. I did not see her the first day, and only casually the second. But she knew I was in the building, and when I came upon her one evening at the very desk in the mezzanine which we all have such bitter cause to remember, I could not forbear expressing myself in a way she could not misunderstand. The result was of a kind to drive a man like myself to an extremity of self-denunciation and rage. She rose up as if insulted, and flung me one sentence and one sentence only before she hailed the elevator and left my presence. A cur could not have been dismissed with less ceremony."

"That is not like my daughter. What was the sentence you allude to? Let me hear the very words." Mr. Challoner had come forward and now stood awaiting his reply, a dignified but pathetic figure, which all must view with respect.

"I hate the memory of them, but since you demand it, I will repeat them just as they fell from her lips," was Mr. Brotherson's bitter retort. "She said, 'You of all men should recognize the unseemliness of these proposals. Had your letters given me any hint of the feelings you have just expressed, you would never have had this opportunity of approaching me.' That was all; but her indignation was scathing. Ladies who have supped exclusively off silver, show a fine scorn for the common ware of the cottager."

The assertive boldness—some would call it bravado—with which he thus finished the story of his relations with the dead heiress, seemed to be more than Mr. Challoner could stand. With a look of extreme pain and perplexity he vanished from the doorway, and it fell to Dr. Heath to inquire:

"Is this letter—a letter of threat you will remember—the only communication which passed between you and Miss Challoner after this unfortunate passage of arms at the Clermont?"

"Yes. I had no wish to address her again. I had exhausted in this one outburst whatever humiliation I felt."

"And she? Did she give no sign, make you no answer?"

"None whatever." Then, as if he found it impossible to hide this hurt to his pride, "she did not even seem to consider me worthy the honor of an added remark. Such arrogance is, no doubt, commendable in a Challoner."

This time his bitterness did not pass unrebuked by the coroner: "Remember the gray hairs of the only Challoner who can hear you, and respect his grief."

Mr. Brotherson bowed. "I have finished," said he. "I shall have nothing more to say on the subject." And he drew himself up in expectation of the dismissal he evidently thought pending.

But the coroner was not done with him by any means. He had a theory in regard to this lamentable suicide which he hoped to establish by this man's testimony, and, in pursuit of this plan, he not only motioned to Mr. Brotherson to reseat himself, but began at once to open a fresh line of examination by saying:

"You will pardon me, if I press this matter. I have been given to understand that notwithstanding your break with Miss Challoner, you have kept up your visits to the Clermont and were even on the spot at the time of her death."

"On the spot?"

"In the hotel, I mean."

"There you are right; I was in the hotel."

"At the time of her death?"

"Very near the time. I remember hearing some disturbance in the lobby behind me, just as I was passing out at the Broadway entrance."

"You did, and did not return?"

"Why should I return? I am not a man of much curiosity. There was no reason why I should connect a sudden alarm in the lobby of the Clermont with any cause of special interest to myself."

This was so true and the look which accompanied the words was so frank that the coroner hesitated a moment before he said:

"Certainly not, unless—well, to be direct, unless you had just seen Miss Challoner and knew her state of mind and what was likely to follow your abrupt departure."

"I had no interview with Miss Challoner."

"But you saw her? Saw her that evening and just before the accident?" Sweetwater's papers rattled; it was the only sound to be heard in that moment of silence. Then—

"What do you mean by those words?" inquired Mr. Brotherson, with studied composure. "I have said that I had no interview with Miss Challoner. Why do you ask me then, if I saw her?"

"Because I believe that you did. From a distance possibly, but yet directly and with no possibility of mistake."

"Do you put that as a question?"

"I do. Did you see her figure or face that night?"

"I did."

Nothing—not even the rattling of Sweetwater's papers—disturbed the silence which followed this admission.

"From where?" Doctor Heath asked at last.

"From a point far enough away to make any communication between us impossible. I do not think you will require me to recall the exact spot."

"If it were one which made it possible for her to see you as clearly as you could see her, I think it would be very advisable for you to say so."

"It was—such a spot."

"Then I think I can locate it for you, or do you prefer to locate it yourself?"

"I will locate it myself. I had hoped not to be called upon to mention what I cannot but consider a most unfortunate coincidence. I met Miss Challoner's eye for one instant from the top of the little staircase running up to the mezzanine. I had yielded thus far to an impulse I had frequently combated, to seek by another interview to retrieve the bad effect which must have been made upon her by my angry note. I knew that she frequently wrote letters in the mezzanine at this hour, and got as far as the top of the staircase in my effort to join her. But I got no further. When I saw her on her feet, with her face turned my way, I remembered the scorn with which she had received my former heartfelt proposals and, without taking another step forward, I turned away from her and fled down the steps and so out of the building by the main entrance. She saw me, for her hand flew up to a startled gesture, but I cannot think that my presence on the same floor with her could have caused her to strike the blow which terminated her life. Why should I? No woman sacrifices her life out of mere regret for the disdain she has shown a man she has taken no pains to understand."

"You saw Miss Challoner lift her hand, you say. Which hand, and what was in it? Anything?"

"She lifted her right hand, but it would be impossible for me to tell you whether there was anything in it or not. I simply saw the movement before I turned away. It looked like one of alarm to me. I felt that she had some reason for this. She could not know that it was in repentance I came rather than in fulfillment of my threat."

A sigh from the adjoining room. Mr. Brotherson rose, as he heard it, and in doing so met the clear eye of Sweetwater fixed upon his own. Its language was, no doubt, peculiar and it seemed to fascinate him for a moment, for he started as if to approach the detective, but foresaw this intention almost immediately, and addressing the coroner, gravely remarked:

"Her death following so quickly upon this abortive attempt of mine at an interview startled me by its coincidence as much as it does you. In the weakness of her woman's nature, it was more than this—if the scorn she had previously shown me was a cloak she instinctively assumed to hide what she was not ready to disclose, my remorse will be as great as any one here could wish. But the proof of all this will have to be very convincing before my present convictions will yield to it. Some other and more poignant source will have to be found for that instant's impulsive act than is supplied by this story of my unfortunate attachment."

Doctor Heath was convinced, but he was willing to concede something to the secret demand made upon him by Sweetwater, who was bundling up his papers with much clatter.

Looking up with a smile which had elements in it he was hardly conscious of perhaps himself, he asked in an off-hand way:

"Then why did you take such pains to wash your hands of the affair the moment you had left the hotel?"

"I do not understand."

"You passed around the corner into—street, did you not?"

"Very likely. I could go that way as well as another."

"And stopped at the first lamp-post?"

"Oh, I see. Some one saw that childish action of mine."

"What did you mean by it?"

"Just what you have suggested. I did go through the pantomime of washing my hands of an affair I considered definitely ended. I had resisted an irrepressible impulse to see and talk with Miss Challoner again, and was pleased with my firmness. Unaware of the tragic blow which had just fallen, I was full of self-congratulations at my escape from the charm which had lured me back to this hotel again and again in spite of my better judgment, and I wished to symbolize my relief by an act of which I was, in another moment, ashamed. Strange that there should have been a witness to it. (Here he stole a look at Sweetwater.) Stranger still, that circumstances, by the most extraordinary of coincidences, should have given so unforeseen a point to it."

Mr. Brotherson Rose as He Heard It.

"You are right, Mr. Brotherson. The whole occurrence is startling and most strange. But life is made up of the unexpected, as none know better than we physicians, whether our practice be of a public or private character."

As Mr. Brotherson left the room, the curiosity to which he had yielded once before, led him to cast a glance of penetrating inquiry behind him full at Sweetwater, and if either felt embarrassment, it was not the hunted but the hunter.

But the feeling did not last. "I've simply met the strongest man I've ever encountered," was Sweetwater's encouraging comment to himself. "All the more glory if I can find a joint in his armor or a hidden passage to his cold, secretive heart."

If you pay your laundress two dollars a week, this amounts to $104 a year; $520 in five years. But with a FEDERAL Electric Washing Machine, a very liberal estimate shows that it costs at the most only $5.20 a year to operate, assuming that you use 10c worth of electricity each week. This, in five years, amounts to only $26; adding this to $85, the price of the FEDERAL, you get $111, the total cost of the FEDERAL for five years. Subtract this from $520, the cost with the old way, and you find a positive saving of $409 with the FEDERAL in five years time!

How to Keep a Good Maid

Your maid can do all your washing with a FEDERAL without any work on her part. The FEDERAL does all the work. She merely needs to guide it.

A FEDERAL Saves Wear and Tear on the Clothing, Too

Continual rubbing and scrubbing on a washboard soon wears out the toughest fabric. But, with a FEDERAL, the heaviest blankets or flimsiest laces are washed spotlessly clean without rubbing. So that a FEDERAL does more than save in operating cost; it lengthens the life of your clothes; cuts down expense; saves money. No complicated mechanism in a FEDERAL—no unprotected wheels or gears to catch or tear the clothes—the merest child can wash the most delicate fabric thoroughly without a bit of danger.

The Simplest Machine

Just place the clothes, soap and hot water in the FEDERAL, switch on the electricity and the work begins. Over and over the boiling suds work through every fibre of the fabric. In a surprisingly short time your clothes are cleaned ready to run through the self-working, reversible wringer.

We Will Send to you complete, ready to operate upon receipt of check or money order for $85 and, if it does not do all we claim for it, we will refund your money promptly.

DIXON CITIZENS GLADLY TESTIFY AND CONFIDENTLY RECOMMEND DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

It is testimony like the following that has placed Doan's Kidney Pills so far above competitors. When people right here at home raise their voices in praise there is no room left for doubt. Read the public statement of a Dixon citizen:

John Salzman, 103 Artesian Ave., Dixon, Ill., says: "I have no reason to change my good opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills which I publicly expressed some years ago. I had backache a great deal and pains across my loins. My kidneys did not act regularly and I felt miserable in every way. Finally I used Doan's Kidney Pills procured at Leake Bros. Co's. Drug Store and they did good work, relieving me I keep them in the house and whenever I take them, they help me."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

U. S. REPORT HITS FRIEDMANN 'CURE'

Observations Do "Not Justify
That Confidence in Remedy
Inspired by Wide Publicity."

SEEK TO PREVENT CANCER

Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt and Other Wealthy Women Will Assist
Scientists in New Disease Fight.

Washington, May 10.—Declaring that the public health observations do "not justify that confidence in the remedy which has been inspired by widespread publicity," the first official and authentic report of the federal government experts' investigation of the Friedmann vaccine was made public here.

The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, before which the report was presented,
immediately and unanimously adopted resolutions declaring its belief that "no specific cure for tuberculosis has been discovered that deserves the confidence of the medical profession and the public."

Although couched in the diplomatic terms of a governmental scientific document, the report on the Fried-mann "cure" expresses the disappointment of the public health service at the conditions imposed by Friedmann, and says his declaration to furnish complete information concerning his vaccine was not "satisfactory from a scientific standpoint."

The public health service, however,
the report says, accepted his conditions because of the great importance to thousands of sufferers and the hope that a cure might be found.

Information is Withheld.

The investigations pointed out that while Doctor Friedmann in his preliminary correspondence offered to lay full and impartial information before this government, he declined to do so after coming here. Observations by the public health service will be continued, however, and the investigators expressed the opinion that the patients already inoculated must look forward to a long period of treatment.

"We must not lose sight of the possible therapeutic value of this preparation and, on the other hand, it is necessary to guard against too great an optimism in respect to its merits.
Without presenting in detail the condition of patients under observation, we are in a position to state that the facts thus far observed do not justify that confidence in the remedy which has been inspired by widespread publicity."

Officers Chosen.

Officers were elected as follows:
President, Dr. John H. Lowman,
Cleveland, O.; vice-presidents, Miss Mabel T. Boardman of the American Red Cross and Dr. Theodore B. Sachs, Chicago; treasurer, William H. Baldwin, Washington; secretary, Dr. Henry Borton Jacobs, Baltimore, Md.

Brig. Gen. George H. Sternberg, U.
S. A., retired, of this city, was elected an honorary member of the society, the only one so honored with the exception of Dr. L. Trudeau, originator of the anti-tuberculosis movement in America.

Plans for the formation of a society for the study and prevention of cancer were announced here by Frederick L. Hoffmann, a director of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis. Mr.
Hoffmann announced that there would be a meeting in New York next week of a committee to formulate definite plans for the society. A number of wealthy women, among them Mrs.
Cornelius Vanderbilt, Mrs. Russell
Sage and Mrs. Speyer have offered financial aid, he said, to start the movement.

POISON KILLED HAYTI HEAD

Drug Given Entire Family of Ruler,
But Others Are Saved.

Kingston, Jamaica, May 10.—According to reports received from Haiti, the death of President Tancrede Auguste, which occurred on May 2, was the result of poison and not from natural causes, as had been officially stated.
The reports added that the poison was administered to the entire family of the president, and the other members were revived after much difficulty.

Seventeen persons were killed by bombs and bullets in the uprising at Port Au Prince which followed the election of Senator Bichel Oreste as president.

Milwaukee School Officials Tell Why
Girls Become Speakers.

Milwaukee, May 10.—Cigarette smoking by boys in the local public schools is declared to be the reason why all the valedictorians this year are girls.
School principals assert that the effect of smoking on the boys' minds is such as to bar them from such class honors.

Kanzans Wud Spl It Thru.
